Executive Director's message

Don A. Skelton

Dear Alumni and Friends:

I appreciate having this opportunity to personally thank you for your support and encouragement through the years.

Over the past four decades it has been my pleasure to be associated with Delta State in a variety of positions – first as a student, then a classroom instructor, a coach and an administrator. All have been rewarding but I must admit that the past ten years have clearly been the most exciting and challenging of my career and have afforded numerous opportunities to truly “make a difference” for DSU.

During this association I have had the pleasure of serving four presidents – Dr. James Ewing, Dr. Aubrey Lucas, Dr. Kent Wyatt and Dr. David Potter – all outstanding educators exhibiting a passion for Delta State and working to fulfill its regional mission as the cultural and educational center of the Mississippi Delta.

I have been extremely honored to serve as part of a team of dedicated professionals who understood the University’s potential and worked tirelessly to reach that higher level of excellence. We are fortunate in that we have a good university with outstanding faculty and staff and committed volunteer leadership. Their willingness to serve, leadership and support have been key factors in the success experienced with the University’s development efforts. We can all take pride in the accomplishments to date.

As an alumnus I am excited with the selection of Dr. John Hilpert as Delta State’s seventh president. As president of Northern State University (South Dakota) since 1997, he has successfully led an institution similar in many ways to DSU. He understands and supports the institution’s role as the cultural and educational center of the region. And – most of all – I personally feel he brings strength to the Office of President at a critical time in Delta State’s history.

In closing – I offer a favorite statement provided by the late DSU Outstanding Alumnus B. F. Smith – “It is amazing what can be accomplished when no one cares who gets the credit.” We have experienced and Delta State is enjoying the benefits of this type of working relationship.

As we look back on our years together, I would like to think that we have indeed “made a difference”. After all – isn’t that our charge?

Sincerely,

Don A. Skelton

STEVE AZAR

Delta State Alumni

works it Big in Nashville

Steve Azar spends countless nights on the road. This spring the road led him home. Azar, a 1987 graduate, is one of many successful Statesmen. The country music star returned to DSU in March, kicking off this year's Springfest festivities with a sold out show at the Bologna Performing Arts Center.

"I get back to campus a lot in my mind, my heart, my soul. I remember a lot of the growing up I did here and how much it mattered in my song writing," says Azar, who talked about how important his college years play in his life today. "I come back a lot more in my mind than physically because I'm working so much."

The work started early. Azar took to entertaining, songwriting, and playing before he entered high school. By the time he made it to college, in Delta circles he was a seasoned pro. The Greenville native says he came to Delta State as a quick fix. Initially, intentions were to play tennis for a year and split. The Delta spirit inspired him and he couldn't leave. "Coming to Delta State was one of the most important decisions I've made," says Azar. "I met wonderful people who influenced my life in profound ways. I didn't want to leave."

During his college career, Azar paired a packed performance calendar with academics. The business major kept the big picture in-sight. He says DSU prepared him for the transition from college life to the "real world". In the real world, Azar lives in Nashville. He's part of the Mercury Nashville team, producers of his current album, "Waiting on Joe". Although on track now, Azar is the first to tell you he paid the price. "I've made a lot of mistakes, learned from them, and hope to be able to share those lessons with others sharing similar goals."

Azar's career, he says, is well balanced. He enjoys every element, the writing, producing, playing, and the fans, but nothing beats playing at home. "It's a special place, the Delta. It has influenced the world of music, obviously influenced more than music. They (people in other locations) know about the Delta, and we grew up here—bonus for us!"

The bonus for Azar, is the countless ways he works Delta imagery into a song. "I've got a song about every town in the Delta...Shelby—Oh, I don't have Cleveland—What's wrong with me?"

In September Azar says he's returning to the Delta to make a live album. Included on the play list is a song he debuted at the DSU performance. A song with Delta roots, about a place "At the End of Indianola".

Okay, so Azar's song writing hasn't made it to Cleveland, but rest assured the road will bring him home again.

The Kuhn family welcomes Azar back home.

Governor Musgrove welcomes Boys State

Lyons awarded internship

Joel Lyons, an accounting major and member of the DSU baseball team, was recently awarded an internship with Federal Express (in internal auditing). He is one of only 12 selected from eight schools.

Federal Express, based in Memphis, employs 145,000 people and is the world's largest express transportation company, delivering more than 3 million items each working day. It operates over 600 aircraft and reports revenues of over $22 billion each year.

Mississippi Governor Ronnie Musgrove, center, received a Boys State tee shirt during a visit with delegates Jonathon Watts, left, of Biloxi, and Adam Huell, of Vicksburg. Musgrove addressed the delegates of the American Legion Boys State Department of Mississippi at the Bologna Performing Arts Center. About 350 high school students, representing every county in the state, attended Boys State. This is the second year that Delta State has hosted the week-long event.

Delta State gives new meaning to "TLC"

"TLC" is a popular acronym in our culture. Now, DSU transforms what commonly translates as "tender loving care," into something unique to the university and region. The Technology Learning Center (TLC). In addition to offering the campus state of the art hardware, TLC staff is on hand to provide the training needed to maximize the center's services. In all, the TLC houses four distinct technology areas: Multimedia Production Area, the Model Classroom Environment, Faculty Development Lab, and Video Conferencing Studio.

The Multimedia Production area offers the "bells and whistles" without the cost. This user friendly laboratory setting provides video editing, both VHS and digital, audio, video and CD duplication, desktop publishing, graphic art support, and material assembly. Whether the project is a promotional video, instructional CD, or newsletter, the possibilities are endless!

Technology is here to stay, which means classrooms need to be revamped in order to incorporate the latest equipment. The integration of computer resources, data projectors or monitors, audio, video, DVD, and other media technologies create a sophisticated setting. The Model Classroom Environment is a place for faculty to explore how these technologies relate to the instructional atmosphere. This new age classroom is also a setting where faculty can learn to use these resources. One particular advancement, now permanently available through the TLC is the SMART Symposium which combines a SMART board and screen monitor. The presenter highlights and marks up images being projected, captures and saves notes and drawings, and controls the use of other applications-all from a single "SMART" screen.

The recent technology boom happened quickly, and in many cases, prior to the training of faculty and staff. An increasing number of the student population have grown up with technology at their finger tips. In order to help bridge the technological generation gap, TLC houses a Faculty Development Lab. Here, faculty can come and learn the "how to's" of web design, creating desktop presentations, designing and managing web courses, and recording and editing video. In addition to the technology toys, TLC offers an ongoing program of workshops, seminars, and training events that are practical applications of technology instructional concerns.

The Video Conferencing Studio provides resources for distance learning courses, video and voice-data conferencing, satellite downlinks, and multimedia presentations. The studio combines a high tech classroom, a multipurpose video conferencing setting and television studio in a flexible, integrated environment, and is the link between faculty and students to others throughout Mississippi and the world.

Dr. Larry Lambert talks to faculty and staff about the technology and instructional resources available through Delta State University's Technology Learning Center (TLC) from the Model Classroom. The Model Classroom provides a modern setting allowing technology like laptops and Power Point presentations to become part of the norm. This classroom is one of four areas of focus within the TLC at Delta State.

The new TLC was created during the reorganization of the Audio-Visual and Instructional Development departments. Dr. Michelle Roberts, Chief Information and Planning Officer, says the mission of the Technology Learning Center was always clear. "The goal was to design a service setting for faculty and staff where media resources, technical support, and a focus of quality instruction could be fostered and sustained. The project really started to taking shape when Dr. Larry Lambert, Director of the center was brought on board. His high energy level and enthusiasm for the project made the entire process move a lot quicker than I imagined," said Roberts.

Collier Parker named Dean of College of Arts and Sciences

Collier Parker is the new Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. The Greenville native has been Chair of the Art Department for more than ten years. In his new role, he intends to create programs enhancing the University's curriculum.

One program Parker is already developing is music and television production. "The Delta is an incredible cultural mecca. The history of the area is rich which is evident in the extensive impact the Delta has had on writers, musicians, and artists. Naturally, developing new programs such as music production provides exciting opportunities," said Parker. "Advancements in technology also present Delta State with an opportunity to create programs for the changing job market."

Parker has been with DSU for nearly 20 years, joining the Art Department as a visiting artist after graduating from The Rosary Graduate School of Fine Arts in Florence, Italy. Before chairing the art department Parker was both an assistant and associate professor. He was also the International Student Advisor.

In addition to expanding the art program at DSU, Parker has played a key role in developing the arts in the Bolivar County area. Parker is part of a team whose mission is to establish a school for the fine arts in Cleveland.

Parker says he is committed to providing DSU students with a high quality education primarily as a way to say thank you for the education he received. Parker graduated in 1979 with his Bachelor of Fine Arts from Delta State.

College of Business announces new Dean

1981 graduate, Dr. Billy C. Moore has been named Dean of the College of Business. Moore replaces the former Dean, Dr. William Stewart.

Moore's promotion comes after a seventeen-year professional history with Delta State. After graduating from East Side High School in Cleveland, Moore received his Bachelors of Science degree in Biology and Masters in Business Administration degrees from Delta State. His Ph.D. in finance is from the University of Mississippi.

"We have an excellent business program with a solid reputation at Delta State," said Moore. "Together we will work to enhance and expand this reputation."

Moore is an active member of several professional organizations, including the Southwestern Finance Association and Mid-South Financial Professionals. He is a Certified Financial Planner and a Certified Cash Manager.

Moore's work has gained him recognition among the community and his peers. Most recently he was named "Outstanding Member of the Month" by the Mississippi Chapter-Financial Planning Association.

First Dean Immortalized

Twelve years after his death, Dr. William LaForge's legacy remains at DSU through the people who knew him. On May 2, 2003, LaForge became immortalized in

DSU's history with the rededication of the Roberts-LaForge library in his honor.

Dr. LaForge, Delta State's first Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, devoted his entire educational career to higher education in Mississippi. He began as an Associate Professor of History at the University of Southern Mississippi in 1954 and was appointed Professor of History and Chair of the Division of Social Sciences at Delta State in 1957. LaForge became Dean in 1969 and served in that capacity until his death in 1992.

Don Skelton to lead advancement at ULM

After leading many successful advancement projects at DSU, Dr. Don Skelton has been selected to direct similar efforts at the University of Louisiana at Monroe (ULM). As ULM's Vice President for University Advancement, Skelton will oversee the Office of Public Affairs, Alumni Relations, and University Advancement and Development.

"This is an incredible opportunity," said Skelton. "My experiences are in line with the needs of ULM. It's been a pleasure to work with many wonderful people and to call Delta State home."

In 2002 Skelton was named Vice President for University Advancement. Prior to that appointment Skelton served as Associate Vice President of University Advancement. Since 1993 Skelton has served as Executive Director of the Alumni Association and Foundation.

During a long career with Delta State, Skelton managed the university's first organized Capital Campaign. Under his leadership, The Campaign doubled the initial goal of $5 million.

Dr. James Cofer, President of ULM, said, "Don Skelton has valuable experiences within advancement and public affairs divisions of a university. The experience he built at DSU should carry over and he will be a driving force in improving these divisions at ULM. We are fortunate to have Don on our team."

Dr. Malcolm McEwen (left), director of the Center for Sciences and Environmental Education and professor of science, was presented the S.E. Kossman Outstanding Faculty Award for 2003. Vicki Fioranelli, director of Career Services and Placement, was presented the H.L. Nowell Outstanding Staff Award during the commencement exercises.

William F. Winter was the featured speaker during the 41st Academic Honors Day. Winter, a native of Grenada, served as Governor of Mississippi from 1980-1984. Prior to his term as governor, Winter served as a State Representative, State Treasurer, and Lieutenant Governor. Winter currently practices law in Jackson.

A chance to give back

Chance

Dr. Ronald Chance's Bachelors of Science degree from DSU led the way to a successful scientific career with Exxon Corporation for the past 20 years. On March 6, Chance returned to his alma mater sharing some of his research.

During his lecture Chance discussed the general aspects of gas separations with membranes. He also talked about the scientific developments made within his field of study.

After graduation in 1970, Chance received his PhD in Physical Chemistry from Dartmouth College. His current role with the company is Distinguished Scientific Advisor of Corporate Strategic Research.

The Student Affiliates Chapter of the American Chemical Society sponsored the lecture.

Food and friends part of charm of small town life

Raise your hand if you grew up in a small town. If you did, check out Culinary Kudzu: Recollections & Recipes from Growing Up Southern by Keetha DePriest Reed who attended Delta State in 1990.

This work features memories of growing up in a small Mississippi Delta town, of family get-togethers and the food and recipes that are central to those gatherings. Traditions and storied family gatherings take center stage in Culinary Kudzu.

"Culinary Kudzu is about food, especially southern food. Reminiscences and stories about family and friends are also a big part of it," said Reed. "Of course, it'd be hard to write a book about food in the south – or maybe anywhere – without writing about family."

Gardner is top producer

Mandy Gardner, a 1999 graduate, ranked number 6 in production for Mississippi among CENTURY 21 agents for 2002. Mandy ranked number 1 in the state of

Mississippi for CENTURY 21 agents for the first quarter of 2003, and number 4 in the MidSouth region consisting of over 2,500 agents for the first quarter of 2003. In addition, she has been recognized as a National CENTURY 21 Quality Service Producer for the past 3 years, and received the National CENTURY 21 CENTURIAN Award for 2002, which is CENTURY 21's highest production award.

Mandy serves as president of the Greater Jackson Alumni Chapter and is a member of the DSU Alumni Association Board.

Moro named securities traders

Teresa Moro, who earned a BBA in Finance from Delta State in 1981, has been named Securities Trader and Portfolio Manager at Kanaly Trust Company in Houston, Texas. In this position she is responsible for the company's fixed income trading, which includes mutual funds as well as buying and selling securities.

Moro came to Kanaly Trust Company from American General Corporation where she most recently served as Portfolio Manager, Fixed Income/Vice President. She was with American General in various trading capacities for over 16 years. She served as money market trader for AIM Management Group prior to her time with American General. Moro possesses over 20 years of experience in the financial services industry.

Moro earned a MBA in Finance from the University of St. Thomas in Houston, Texas.

Armour selected

This year's 17th annual Jubilee Jam, the largest musical event in Miss., poster is by 1995 graduate, Rob

Armour. Rob chose to use acrylic paints on board in order to achieve the bright colors and textures in the painting.

As Rob describes it, "I wanted the color scheme to convey energy and excitement, and maybe even a little mystery. Overall, I wanted the painting to be a true representation of the festival. I just wanted a big, bright, fun, work that people would enjoy."

The painting is intended to convey the "excitement of the moment" that the Jam patron experiences. The painting contains four elements: the magical nighttime sky; the scenery and architecture of downtown Jackson; the performers on stage full of energy; and the crowd.

A.C. Williams retires

A.C. Williams, a 1964 graduate, retired from coaching baseball after 29 years and 499 victories, at Ridgeway High School in Memphis, Tenn.

Williams got his start in 1964 as an unpaid assistant at Groves High School in Savannah, Ga. and went to Ridgeway in 1984 and coaching baseball, basketball, football, cross-country, track and golf.

In his final season, as baseball coach, Williams led Ridgeway to a 33-4 record and a Class AA state tournament berth. Williams remarked, "We've had some years where we weren't that great, but it's always been a good time."

In addition, Ridgeway High School honored Williams recently by naming the baseball field after him.

Alumnus of the Year 2003 Hunter Cade

A native of Lexington, MS, Hunter Cade graduated from Lexington High School in 1961. He continued his education at Delta State, earning a degree in history in 1965. While at Delta State, Cade was an officer of the Student Government Association, vice president of his senior class, and a charter member and officer of Kappa Alpha Order. He also graduated from the Mississippi School of Banking at The University of Mississippi in 1972 and from the School of Banking of the South at Louisiana State University in 1978.

Cade began his financial career at First National Bank of Lexington and was employed there until 1973 when he began work for Deposit Guaranty Bank in Jackson. He served as Vice President in the Investment Department until leaving in 1984 to join the investment firm, Legg Mason Wood Walker, Inc. in Jackson, MS where he is currently serving as a Senior Vice President of Investments.

Active in professional activities, Cade was President of the Mississippi Security Dealers Association and a member of the Funds Management Committee of the Mississippi Bankers Association, writing the Investment Handbook for Mississippi Bankers, published by the MBA. He also served on the Professional Qualifications Committee of the Municipal Security Rulemaking Board in Washington, D.C., from 1979 to 1994.

Cade has been a long-time supporter of Delta State, joining the Holmes County Chapter of the Alumni Association shortly after graduation and later becoming an active member and President of the Hinds County Chapter. He served as President of the Alumni Association in 1980-81 and was a member of the Foundation Board from 1980-88, serving as President from 1985 until 1988. He also represented Delta State on the Inter-Alumni Council, was a charter member of The President's Club, and received the Hugh Ellis Walker Service Award in 1994.

Other civic activities include membership on the Board of Trustees at Jackson Academy from 1994-2000, including a term as President of the Board. Cade also served as a member of the Administrative Board at Christ United Methodist Church and is presently a member of the Board of Directors of Holmes County Bank and Trust Co. of Lexington.

He and his wife Suzanne are the proud parents of two sons, Bryan and David.

Other Homecoming Award recipients being honored are Doug Sullivan, recipients being honored are Doug Sullivan, the recipient of the Hugh Ellis Walker Service Award, Jerry Ainsworth, the recipient of the Gladys Castle "Friend of Delta State University" Service Award, and Robin Carruth, the recipient of the Kent Wyatt "Young Alumnus" Service Award.

A New Day at DSU

Dr. John
Hilpert

*DSU's 7th
President*

Delta State University welcomes Dr. John Hilpert as the University's seventh President. The Institutions of Higher Learning Board of Trustees unanimously selected Hilpert, after an on-campus interview in late June.

"This (Delta State and the region) is a place with such a rich tradition and heritage," said Hilpert at the announcement.

Hilpert and his wife, Pat, enjoyed a warm reception from the Delta State community. Hilpert says Delta State's family atmosphere played a large role in their decision to accept the opportunity. "We wondered if this is the right place for us, can we make a difference here? Would one be happy here, and in a day and a half you won our hearts," said Hilpert, "We really do appreciate this opportunity."

Dr. Hilpert has served as President of Northern State University in Aberdeen, South Dakota since 1997. He holds a doctorate in higher education administration from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, a master of divinity from Concordia Seminary in Missouri, a bachelor of arts from Concordia Senior College in Indiana and an associate of arts from St. Paul's College in Missouri. From 1990 to 1997, he held appointments at the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, first as the Vice President for University Relations/Executive Director of the Foundation from 1990 to 1996, and then served as Acting President /Executive Vice-President from 1996 to 1997. He was Vice President for College Advancement at Thiel College in Greenville, Pennsylvania, from 1983 to 1990 and Executive Assistant to the President at Finlandia University in Hancock, Michigan, from 1978 to 1983.

The search committee is confident Delta State will grow from Hilpert's experiences.

"Delta State University is fortunate to have an executive with Dr. Hilpert's credentials and experience to continue to provide the type of leadership that will make DSU even stronger. This is a very good day for the Delta," said Dr. Stacy Davidson, search committee co-chair.

"On behalf of the Board, I wish to thank everyone involved in the search for their insight and assistance throughout the process," said Bryce Griffis, search committee co-chair. "With the help of the Commissioner, the Campus Advisory Committee and our consultant, the Board has worked tirelessly to provide this outstanding university with an innovative, energetic leader who will be a most effective President."

The Board conducted a national search. Hilpert was one of four finalists to take part in on-campus interviews with Board members and members of the Campus Advisory Committee. Hilpert succeeds Dr. John Thornell, who was named president on an interim basis after Dr. David Potter was appointed by the Board to the position of Commissioner of Higher Education.

"We join campus and community leaders in congratulating Dr. Hilpert on being selected and welcome Dr. and Mrs. John Hilpert to DSU," said David Potter, Commissioner of Higher Education. "He possesses tremendous talents and a demonstrated commitment to helping DSU continue to reach its goals. Dr. Hilpert's experiences have allowed him the opportunity to gain the type of local, national and international perspectives on challenges and current trends in higher education that are necessary for effective leadership today. The Board and I believe he will be an excellent addition to Mississippi higher education," Potter concluded.

Dr. Hilpert is expected to officially join DSU in early September.

Dr. Hilpert and his wife, Pat, have three adult sons. Mrs. Hilpert is a Registered Nurse and a published, award-winning photographer.

Friends endow memorial scholarship

Ada Swindle Mitchell, of Greenwood, died on April 1st after complications from surgery. She was 49 years old. An employee of Viking Range Corporation since 1988, Ada was Viking Range's first full time Human Resource manager and was promoted to Director of Human Resources.

One of Ada's most notable contributions to Viking Range was her single-handed initiation of the Viking Educational Assistance Program, which allowed Viking Range employees to earn college degrees. "Ada felt very strongly about education and the value it had, not only for one's company and career, but to the individual as a personal accomplishment," said Viking president Fred Carl. "She single handedly started this program a number of years ago and devoted untold hours to getting it on track. She worked hard to get as many people as she could to participate in the early years of the program, encouraging them every step of the way and making sure that the school looked after their best interests."

Ada was scheduled to graduate from Delta State in May 2003 with a Bachelors Degree in Business Administration with a major in Management. The degree was awarded posthumously on May 10 at graduation. Ada was recognized as a member of the President's List as a result of maintaining a 4.0 GPA.

In memory of Ada, friends and Viking Range employees have established the Ada Mitchell Memorial Scholarship Fund. The scholarship will be awarded annually to a student in the College of Business or the College of Arts and Sciences.

"Ada made tremendous contributions to our company, but none more significant than the Viking culture she helped create and nurture, and that will forever be her legacy," stated Carl. "Now, it will be our responsibility, and privilege, to carry on Ada's legacy through the endowment of a scholarship at Delta State University."

Memorial gifts to the Ada S. Mitchell Scholarship Fund may be sent to Keith Fulcher, Box 3141, Cleveland, MS 38733 or to Viking Range, P.O. Box 956, Greenwood, MS 38935.

Nissan makes $150,000 pledge

Nissan North America in Canton presented Delta State University with a check for $30,000 on April 13. Nissan's donation is part of a $150,000 pledge Nissan has made to the Delta Education Initiative, which is housed in the University's College of Education.

"We understand the greatest investment we can make in our community is to invest in the education of our young people," said Dave Boyer, vice president of manufacturing for Nissan Canton. "This gift signifies our long term commitment to higher education in Mississippi." The gift to Delta State is part of a $1 million commitment Nissan has made to higher education in Mississippi.

The Delta Education Initiative is a joint venture between Delta State University, the Mississippi Congressional Delegation in Washington, D.C., Delta Council, and a group of 34 Delta school districts serving 110,000 elementary and secondary students. The initiative provides services and professional development for member school personnel and educational opportunities for their students.

Nissan's Canton facility produces the Quest minivan, the Titan pickup, and the Pathfinder Armada SUV at the $1.4 billion plant. The facility has the capacity to produce 400,000 vehicles annually.

Tony Hill (r), Section Manager for Nissan-Canton's Body Plant and a 1980 alumnus present Dr. David Potter (l) and Dr. John Thornell (center) with the first $30,000 gift. Joining Tony in the presentation were Nissan executive Lurlene Irvin, Section Manager for Community Relations, and Galen Medlin, Director of Human Resources.

Core Arts Program receives $50,000 bequest

Eight students were awarded scholarships to the Janice Wyatt Summer Arts Institute Core Arts Program thanks to a $50,000 bequest from the estate of Lorena J. "Rockie" Smith. "Mother wanted to ensure that young people will have an opportunity for continued exposure to the arts," stated her daughter, Llana. "The Core Arts Program at the Bologna Performing Arts Center is the perfect match for my mother's love for the arts." Smith taught dancing for over 50 years and was a strong advocate for the arts in the West Memphis area.

Smith was born in Starkville in 1926 and attended Mississippi State University. She and her husband, A. B., moved to Blytheville, Ark. and later to West Memphis. A. B. and Coach Dave "Boo" Ferriss were fraternity brothers at Mississippi State. Llana taught at Delta State from 1978 to 1982. To make a gift to the Program please contact Keith Fulcher at 662-846-4708.

"Rockie" Smith, (above) made her estate gift in hopes that young people would be exposed to the arts.

Foundation officers named

Peter Jernberg (center), of Jackson, was recently elected President of the Delta State University Foundation Board of Directors. Jernberg, who earned two masters degrees in addition to his B.A. at Delta State, is headmaster of Jackson Academy in Jackson. Jimmy Newquist, of Jackson, will serve as the Vice-President. Newquist (left) is a 1978 graduate and is vice-president of Wellington Associates, Inc. Frank Sibley (right), of Marks, a 1971 graduate, is the Treasurer. Sibley is President and CEO of Citizens Bank & Trust. For the past three years the Foundation, which was formed in 1967, has provided Delta State with gifts totaling over $1 million to support University needs.

Kellogg tops $2 million!

With its most recent gift to Delta State, the W.K. Kellogg Foundation has topped the $2 million mark in grants. The most recent grant for $1.2 million is to the Center for Community Development (CCD) to implement the Mid South Delta Leaders Program (MSDL), a tri-state Delta leadership development program, which will be in partnership with Arkansas State University, and Grambling State University (La.).

Dr. Myrtis Tabb (left), chair, B. F. Smith for Regional Development, and former director of the Center for Community Development, Frank Taylor (center), program director for the Kellogg Foundation and Freddie Webb-Petett (right), coordinator of the Mid-South Delta Initiative for the W.W. Kellogg Foundation, celebrate Kellogg's $1.2 million grant at the February 13 news conference.

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation, located in Battle Creek, Michigan, is a nonprofit organization whose mission is to apply knowledge to solve the problems of people.

University to build revolutionary recording studio

Thanks to a $135,000 gift from Fred Carl, Jr., of Greenwood, and the involvement of a nationally known leader in the music industry Delta State is constructing a state-of-the-art recording studio that will offer a revolutionary new method of teaching music engineering and mixing. The Delta Music Institute (DMI), a concept conceived by Carl, will house the largest recording studio in a university setting in the nation and will be the home of the new Music Technology and Contemporary Music Studies in the Department of Music.

Carl, a 1975 alumnus, brought famed music producer Norbert Putnam on board as consultant and acoustic design engineer. Putnam has a celebrated reputation in the music industry, producing records for artists such as Jimmy Buffet, Joan Baez, Linda Ronstadt, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, and Dan Fogelberg. Putnam has recorded with hundreds of artists, such as Elvis Presley and The Beatles being the two most notable names.

"The most unique aspect of the Delta Music Institute will be its enormous recording studio featuring 5.1 surround-sound monitoring systems with the capability for a full symphony with 100-voice choir," said Collier Parker, Dean, College of Arts and Sciences. Located in Whitfield Gym, the DMI is being modeled after Abbey Road Studio One in England. A smaller recording studio will be used for contemporary rock, jazz, hip-hop, or blues recording. "Not only will Delta State offer the highest level of equipment, but the top echelon of teaching professionals as well," said Parker.

While the financial backing of Fred Carl has successfully begun the program, additional funds are needed to ensure its success. For more information about the Delta Music Institute, or to make a donation, please contact Parker at 662.846.4100, or the Development Office at 662.846.4708 or e-mail kfulcher@deltastate.edu.

Teague named Athletic Director

Dr. Bradley B. Teague, a 1992 graduate, became the new Athletic Director on July 1, 2003, after Dr. Jim Jordan's retirement.

Teague was a standout baseball player for Delta State from 1989-1992. He currently ranks second on the DSU all-time lists in career victories with 29 and in career appearances with 63. His 13 victories in 1991 ranks fifth on the DSU single season list earning him All-Gulf South Conference, ABCA All-South/South Central Region and ABCA All-American laurels. He repeated as All-GSC in 1992 before graduating with a Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics that year.

Teague received his Masters of Education in administration and supervision from Delta State in 1995 and earned his Doctor of Philosophy degree in University Leadership from the University of Mississippi in 2000.

Teague began his career as Assistant Director of the Delta State Alumni/Foundation in August 1992. While at DSU he oversaw the accounting and acknowledgement procedures of gifts and pledges to the Alumni Association and the university Foundation. He also assisted in all aspects of the University's first multi-million dollar capital campaign.

Teague left Delta State in June 1996 to assume the duties of Assistant Athletic Director at Ole Miss and in July 1998 became the Associate Director of the Ole Miss Loyalty Foundation. As Associate Director, he was responsible for projecting, formulating and publishing a $10 million annual budget in conjunction with the athletic budget and presenting it to the Ole Miss Loyalty Foundation Board of Directors. He was project coordinator and solicitor for Ole Miss's $35 million capital campaign. Teague also served as project coordinator and solicitor for Ole Miss's $25 million football stadium end zone expansion in 2000 and assisted with a $13 million sideline expansion in 1996. He was also involved in coordinating the Athletic Department's courtesy car program and game-day manager for stadium premium seating. He organized the statewide Football Coaches' Supplement meetings and assisted the Development Director with Title IX compliance and coaches' contracts.

Soccer gets a start

Delta State will field both a men's and women's soccer program starting this Fall. With this birth, these new programs should increase enrollment for students who want to attend Delta State and who also want to play soccer at the collegiate level. Now they will have the best of both worlds!

Plans are being made to build some facilities in the future and possibility putting down turf on the football stadium field so football and soccer can be played in the stadium with the seating and lights already in place.

Dr. Brad Teague, Athletic Director, has selected Jim Allen as head coach to implement the program.

Both programs are slated to begin playing at club level in the Gulf South Conference in the fall of 2004.

Whittaker, Armstrong, and Booker win Kerg Award

Whittaker, Armstrong and Booker

At the 35th Annual Athletic Awards Banquet, sponsored by the DSU Athletic Alumni Association, Chris Booker, Justin Whittaker and Angela Armstrong were the winners of the Charles S. Kerg Senior Student Athletic Awards. These awards are presented to the top male and female senior student athletes each year.

Whittaker, of Humble, Texas, became the first Statesmen ever to win an NCAA Individual National Championship in swimming, winning the 100-Backstroke in 2002. Whitaker has earned 27 NCAA All-American honors and has received the New South Intercollegiate Swim Conference "Swimmer of the Year" four times. Whittaker holds the DSU record in the 100 and 200 Backstroke and was honored last summer by the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame for his NCAA National title.

Armstrong, of Fort Worth, Texas, has been a four-year starter at second base for the Lady Statesmen softball team. She has won All-Gulf South Conference honors twice.

Booker, of Clarendon, Ark., was a four year starter on the offensive line for the Statesmen where he earned All-American three times, and both All-Gulf South Conference and Academic All-GSC four times. Booker became the first football player to be named to five different All-American teams in back-to-back seasons.

Logan returns to lead cheers

Former National Championship cheerleader, Kim Logan has been named coach of the DSU cheer-leading squad. Logan was a cheerleader from 1993 to 1998 and cheered on three National Championship squads. She is also employed as a secretary in the Athletic department.

Gulf South Conference Champs!

The DSU Baseball team captured the Gulf South Conference crown for the ninth time in Delta State history and the second time in head Coach Mike Kinnison's seven-year career.

The Statesmen beat East Division rival Alabama-Huntsville in the tourney championship game 9-2 on May 6, 2003.

On day one of the tournament, the top-seeded Statesmen beat third-seeded Valdosta State 12-9. In the second game of day two, the Statesmen defeated their West Division rival Southern Arkansas 10-2. Their third opponent on day three was East Division champions, University of West Florida and the Statesmen shut them out by a score of 2-0.

Jud Thigpen garnered the Most Outstanding Player Award at this year's GSC championship.

Former Ole Miss center joins Statesmen

John Gunn, a 260 pound 6-foot-11 inch center, is the diamond of Coach Steve Rives' 2003 recruiting class. He comes to Delta State for his final year of eligibility after playing with Ole Miss for four years. Coach Rives believes that he brings with him the total package because he can shoot, can score, and can defend and has proved that in the tough Southeastern Conference.

Gunn is an Oxford native and says he is transferring to Delta State for a better opportunity. After visiting Delta State for the first time, Gunn said he felt that he belonged.

Kinnison honored

Baseball Coach Mike Kinnison was named the Gulf South Conference's Coach of the Year while nine Statesmen were named All-Conference. Kinnison earned his third GSC Coach of the Year accolade. He was named GSC Coach of the Year in his first season in 1997 and again in 2000. Kinnison owns a 314-83 overall record in seven seasons. He earned his 300th victory with an 11-4 over Central Arkansas on April 13, 2003.

2003 Coaches Hall of Fame

Clyde Adams '58, Larry Therrell '68, and Larry Watkins '76, will be inducted into the 2003 Coaches Hall of Fame at halftime on September 20th during the Statesmen vs. Valdosta game. There will be a reception in their honor during the Pig Pickin activities at Shumake Park under the tent in front of the Bryce Griffis Indoor Baseball Facility. Please stop by and visit with the inductees and their families.

1977 Lady Statesmen Inducted

The Institute for International Sport, located in Kingston, Rhode Island, placed Delta State University's 1977 women's basketball team in its Scholar-Athlete Hall of Fame.

In 1977 the Lady Statesmen, under Coach Margaret Wade, won its third consecutive and final NAIA Championship. The accomplishment is especially significant because it signaled a transition to the NCAA Championship format, which began the following year. The world would forever change for women's basketball, but not before Delta State established itself as a dominant team in the game.

Alumni Spotlight: Della Hamilton

It is a small world

In the spring of 2002, Della Hamilton graduated from Delta State with a degree in Elementary Education. After marrying, Della moved to Rogers, Ark. and was hired as a third grade teacher at Eastside Elementary School. Arkansas state law requires all new teachers to be mentored during their first year of employment. Della's mentor turned out to be Doris Plitt, a 1970 DSU graduate.

Doris began her teaching career in Mississippi, then taught in Louisiana and Texas before moving to Arkansas, teaching the third grade in the same room where Della teaches now. In the summer of 2002, Doris trained as a mentor as part of the Pathwise Program with Praxis III.

The mentoring program requires 25 hours of out of school mentoring time, plus 18 hours of during school time for observations and feedback each semester. Doris and Della have attended conferences together and implemented two new programs in third grade as a result of mentoring experiences. The high level of training and expectations at Delta State affected the careers of a veteran educator with over 30 years of service and a novice educator with her professional life just beginning.

Delta State University

Donor triples her income and makes gift to the University!

If you have already named the University in your estate plans, please let us know so we can appropriately thank you.

Frances Lee Wong, of Cleveland, was earning 2% on a Certificate of Deposit (CD). When the CD came due in early June, she took the money and converted it to a Charitable Gift Annuity offered by the Delta State University Foundation. In return the Foundation Office will pay her 7.8% for life on the amount of the gift. The 7.8% payout rate is fixed for life and is based on Mrs. Wong's age of 78.

"I'm proud of Delta State University. My three daughters and son all attended the University. My husband, Glenn Wong, Sr., always told them that they can get just as good an education at Delta State as they could anywhere in the country," said Mrs. Wong. "I decided to take what little I had and give it to the University to help students who are needy. I had planned to leave something in my will to this great University, but decided to give it now. Because I did it now I will receive a guaranteed income for the rest of my life."

Mrs. Wong, born in Louise, will receive quarterly payments for the remainder of her life. "I am a retired senior citizen and earning three times what I was making on a CD helps me," she said. "I give God credit for blessing us with Delta State. All of my teachers at Louise Consolidated School were Delta State graduates."

She volunteered at the Baptist Student Union for fourteen years and is in her tenth year as a volunteer at Bolivar Medical Center where she has logged 7,500 volunteer hours. "I'm still here after 78 years trying to work for God," Mrs. Wong said in conclusion to the interview.

INCREASE YOUR INCOME!

With a Delta State Foundation charitable gift annuity, you may earn up to 11.3% for life!

Act now and receive:

- Lifetime income
- Charitable deduction for a portion of the gift
- Possible partial tax-free annual income

All that and a federal income tax deduction!

Annuity Rates for One Life:

Age	Rate
60	5.7
70	6.5
80	8.0
90	11.3

Minimum gift of $10,000
